Ethical working is of major strategic importance for Imerys. The Group attaches significant importance to its ability to act in accordance with its fundamental values that it wants to promote and defend, both internally and as regards its stakeholders.

As part of these fundamental values, Imerys recognises its corporate responsibility to ensure that all businesses within the Imerys Group follow responsible tax practices around the world.

Consistency with this approach is the responsibility of the Corporate Tax Department which is responsible for:

- Supporting the business by providing tax advice and input to commercial transactions; and
- Driving consistent tax behaviors across the Group.

Tax payments represent a substantial part of its economic contribution in the countries where Imerys is located.

Imerys believes that one of the fundamental long-term business requirements is a fair and sustainable Group Tax Policy. This document is a part of its corporate responsibility.

The Corporate Tax Department works with transparency, integrity and ethical standards.

2. Organisation

The Corporate Tax Department is organised as follows:

- The Corporate Tax Department is headed by the Tax VP - Group, located in Imerys Headquarter in Paris;
- The Tax VP - Group directly reports to the Chief Financial Officer;
- The Tax VP- Group has hierarchical responsibility over the Imerys Corporate tax Directors, who are in charge of Group tax matters and assistance to subsidiaries, and functional responsibility over the Country or Regional Group tax Directors who report to the country's or regional CAR organisation. organisation is responsible for their company's tax affairs, especially for tax compliance and tax accounting matters, under supervision of the Tax VP-Group.

The Group supports all employees working on tax matters to ensure that they have the skills and technical expertise to fulfill their tax responsibilities and perform to the best of their abilities. Each member of the Tax Department has a consistent understanding of the identification, report and management of a tax risk. The corporate tax responsibility is to ensure that all businesses within the Imerys Group follow responsible tax practices around the world.

The Corporate Tax Department is available, on call, to give assistance and answer any question raised by any Group member and should be involved in all matters under its responsibility.

The Corporate Tax Department coordinates its activity with all other Corporate Services and Business Areas, and works in close cooperation respectively with the CAR organisation, the Corporate Treasury, Strategy & Development, Legal functions and the Business Area Finance VPs.

Moreover, Imerys is supported by external advisers specialised in tax issues when the Group needs their assistance. They are contacted notably because of the highly complex and constantly changing applicable rules across the world, to ensure that the advice from the Corporate Tax Department remains accurate and valid at all time and in all jurisdictions.

With professionalism and transparency, Imerys is globally engaged with tax authorities in a positive relationship based on mutual trust. The Tax Department maintains proactive communication with tax authorities to ensure that all tax filing requirements are met on a timely basis.
